April 6th is "Sorry Charlie Day"

National Sorry Charlie Day is observed each year on April 6. This day encourages us to think about the times we have been rejected. Whether we've been rejected by a sweetheart or by a college, a prospective employer or by the bank for a loan, we've all been refused. National Sorry Charlie Day also gives us an opportunity to reflect on how we survived the rejection and what we learned from it.

Fines

March 31

Jan Merrick is still happy about her new car. Bob Scott is thankful he is healing—slowly. Don Knowles was fined for only being tolerated ONCE a year by his friend Franc. Richard French was happy that his car was fixed at no cost to him. Fred Walsingham was glad for the rain. Ann has a happy/sad dollar that her son, daughter-in-law and dog-in-law are staying for 3 weeks. Elizabeth Wulff paid a fine for having to leave early. Cicely Wulff has her car in Kenny's shop and also will not pay a penny. Dave Morris paid a fine for learning that if you are in an accident be sure the other driver has the same insurance company as you so you don't have to pay the deductible. Rick Hitt paid a thankful fine that no one took his open phone to send "prank" calls. Ed Lillich was fined for not collecting 50/50 money from Bill Knowles. Bill Knowles was fined for distracting Ed Lillich while he was counting the 50/50 money. Fines were interrupted when a secret admirer of Dave Morris burst into the meeting to hug and kiss him. George Wilsey was accused of not paying his fine. Phil paid a fine to absolve George of his "sin". Allen Yergovich was happy about his trip to Tallahassee. Pat Hardin is hoping for good jokes today. Marcie Moore paid a couple of bucks—happy she is back. Larry Sousa fined himself for promoting the Rays game so hard and now won't be able to go. Kenny Alderman and Jean Levi were fined for not being able to count correctly at Bingo. Jim Humphries was fined for being a good Bingo statistician showing the obvious error of Kenny and Jean's totals. Jack Bowman was ultimately fined for insisting the cash drawer had been emptied when in fact that was the counting discrepancy. Dee Alston paid a happy dollar for being at the meeting and looking forward to Ronald McDonald House in the morning. Dee also, rightly identified The Finemaster as one of the "black sheep" of the club that one must watch out for.

Cicely won the pool for guessing closest to the birthdate of Annabelle Waller. Go figure a maternity nurse won the pool! We all think this was insider trading.
